INDUSTRY DEVELOPMENT AND BUSINESS REVIEW

Since 2022, the international environment has become more complicated and severe, together with frequent and sporadic outbreak of pandemic in China, resulting in significant increase in adverse effects. The economic development has been extremely unusual, and the factors of unexpected emergencies have brought about severe impacts. In the face of the complex and ever-changing environment, China has effectively coordinated the pandemic prevention and control and economic and social development, stepped up macro-policy adjustment, and effectively implemented the package policies and measures to stabilize the economy. The pandemic rebound has been efficiently controlled, and the national economy has stabilized and recovered.

According to the statistics from the NEA, as at the end of June 2022, the installed capacity of power generation in China was approximately 2.44 billion kilowatts, of which the installed power generation capacity of thermal power was approximately 1.3 billion kilowatts, the installed power generation capacity of hydropower was approximately 400 million kilowatts, the installed power generation capacity of nuclear power was approximately 56 million kilowatts, the installed power generation capacity of wind power was approximately 340 million kilowatts and the installed power generation capacity of solar power was approximately 340 million kilowatts, and the proportion of non-fossil energy power generation continued to increase of the total installed power generation capacity. In the first half of 2022, China's installed power generation capacity increased by 69.10 million kilowatts, representing an increase of 17.23 million kilowatts over the same period last year, of which hydropower increased by 9.41 million kilowatts, representing an increase of 1.29 million kilowatts over the same period last year, thermal power increased by 13.20 million kilowatts, representing a decrease of 4.36 million kilowatts over the same period last year, nuclear power increased by 2.28 million kilowatts, basically equivalent to that of the same period last year, wind power increased by 12.94 million kilowatts, representing an increase of 2.10 million kilowatts over the same period last year, and solar power increased by 30.88 million kilowatts, representing an increase of 17.87 million kilowatts over the same period last year. Green and low-carbon transformation effect has continued to manifest.

In the first half of 2022, the Board further scientifically studied and judged the development trend in the market and industry, optimized and adjusted the development strategy, clearly optimized the strategic layout around the “three systems”, accelerated the transformation of the “three businesses”, and implemented the “three-step” strategic arrangement, which led to a clearer direction of transformation, more reasonable allocation of resources and stronger development momentum. The Company continued to intensify reform efforts, deepened the reform of the headquarters organization, further consolidated the responsibility of the main body of operation, and continued to increase market development efforts. In the first half of the year, the amount of formal contracts signed and the total profit were better than those of the same period last year. The effect of the “turning losses into profit” in operation was preliminary seen, and the “catching-up” operation and the “taking the lead in science and technology” operation advanced steadily. The economic operation stabilized and improved, and the Company is ushering in a new phase of transformation and development.
